

Claim Violations Of Military Law By POWs Overlooked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Department officials failed to conduct a thorough investigation of whether any U.S. servicemen violated military law while they were prisoners of war in North Vietnam, a special Pentagon committee charges.

"The investigations were minimal and the rationale supporting dismissal" of charges that some former POWs brought against others in 1973 "was very weak," the Defense Review Committee said.

It strongly suggested that this resulted from policy guidance from high officials in the Defense Department at that time.

Melvin R. Laird was defense secretary while preparations were made and policies drafted for the expected freeing of the Americans held as war prisoners. Elliot Richardson succeeded Laird and was in office when Hanoi released 566 POWs four years ago.

The report gave the first official voice to bitter criticism expressed at the time by senior POWs, some of whom tried unsuccessfully to get the armed services to prosecute nine former prisoners for allegedly cooperating with the North Vietnamese.

The 11-member civilian-military committee, which included four former POWs, addressed this question in a report recommending changes in the 22-year-old Military Code of Conduct.

The changes would make it clear that U.S. servicemen could give captors more information than name, rank, service number and birth date, but only after reaching the limits of their ability to resist torture or other severe duress.

A copy of the report, completed in November and left over for the Carter administration to consider, became available over the weekend.

The code is a standard of conduct expected of all U.S. servicemen. It is not a law. However, the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) is a parallel law and it provides penalties for aiding an enemy or other violations.

Japanese POW Chief Has Reunion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rokuro Tomibe, World War II civilian commandant of a Japanese prisoner of war camp, came to San Francisco for a tearful reunion with his former captives.

On Sunday night, 32 years had passed since Tomibe, of Kyoto, Japan, last saw many of the 200 people who gathered for a reunion at the Officers' Club at the Presidio. Tomibe flew in after learning of their get-together.

The years had not only wrinkled the smiling faces, but had also changed attitudes.

"Reconciliation, that's the key word," said the Rev. Robert Sheridan.

As many as 500 American civilians — most of them missionaries or businessmen — were imprisoned from 1941 to 1945 at Bilid Prison in Manila.

Father Sheridan, a 76-year-old Roman Catholic priest from New York, was one of the key organizers of the reunion. "This reunion is really something very special," he said. "You can't fight all your life."

As Tomibe walked into the club

Sunday, he rushed toward a woman near the entrance, kissing and embracing her.

"He remembered my name," said Ann Miller Depewe of Palo Alto, Calif.

Mrs. Depewe said she was a 15-year-old school girl when imprisoned in The Philippines.

Tomibe, who apologized for his broken English, said, "My old memory is recovering as I see the faces. I am so happy to be here. I can't tell my true feelings."

Tomibe was civilian commander of the camp at Bilid Prison, and many of his former prisoners said he was a welcomed relief from the Japanese army commanders who ran the camp before Tomibe's arrival.

"He was a real improvement," said Mike Shaffer, 50, of Boca Raton, Fla.

"Tomibe was a real Japanese gentleman."

Shaffer's late father was a school teacher in The Philippines before the war and set up a school in the prison after the Japanese occupation.

Madame Pandit Joins Gandhi Opponents

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, former Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's sister and one of the best known women in India, has joined the campaign to end the 11-year rule of her niece, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Mrs. Pandit, who was the first woman president of the United Nations General Assembly and served as ambassador to the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain, is 76 and has been in retirement for nearly nine years. But her stand is likely to be a psychological blow to Mrs. Gandhi as well as a big boost to the morale of her opponents.

She said she would not run in the parliamentary election next month nor join any political party formally. But she pledged to campaign actively for "the human values to which India has traditionally ascribed."

and formed a new Congress for Democracy party in revolt against Mrs. Gandhi's leadership of the ruling Congress party.

Although she told the news conference she loved Mrs. Gandhi "very dearly," Mrs. Pandit has reportedly been at political odds with her niece for years. In an interview with the New York Times last October, she said Mrs. Gandhi's government was "far more repressive today, in many ways," than were the British who imprisoned her three times during the Indian struggle for independence.

4 Persons Found Slain In Indiana

HOLLANDSBURG, Ind. (AP) — Four young men — ranging in age from 14 to 22 — were found bound and shot to death this morning at their family's mobile home near here, police said. The victims' heads were blown off, apparently by shotgun blasts, a state trooper said.

The stepmother of three of the victims, Mrs. Betty Spencer, 41, was wounded, police said. She was listed in satisfactory condition at a Terre Haute hospital with wounds to the back and the back of the head.

Two persons in a car matching the description of the auto believed used by the assailants were taken into custody on U.S. 36, about 10 miles east of the murder scene, Indiana State Trooper Jim Bell said. No weapons were found in the car, and the pair was being questioned at the Parke County Jail.

Bell said at least two more men are sought.

The dead were found lined up on the living room floor of the double width mobile home, Bell said. Their hands were tied behind their backs.

Bell identified the victims as Ralph Spencer, 14; Reeve B. Spencer, 16; Raymond M. Spencer, 17, sons of Keith Spencer from a previous marriage, and Gregory B. Brooks, 22, reportedly a half-brother of the other victims.

No motive for the shootings has been established, police said.

Police said Mrs. Spencer telephoned the Parke County Sheriff about 1 a.m. and reported the slayings. Hollandsbury is a rural community on Racoon Lake, a state park about 45 miles west of Indianapolis near the Illinois line.

Utility Bill Aid Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hearings get under way in the House on Tuesday on a bipartisan bill that could provide for 25 per cent reductions in the utility bills of Ohio's elderly citizens—homeowners and renters alike.

Two Cleveland Democrats and Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, propose to tie the reductions to Ohio's homestead property tax exemption, except that they also would be given to renters 65 and over. The homestead law applies only to homeowners.

Rep. Dennis Eckart, D-18 Euclid, the chief sponsor, said he has talked with representatives of GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes and they were to report back to him early this week, possibly today, on whether the administration will join in support.

The big question is whether the state can find funds in a new state budget already threatened by the economic impact of this winter's crippling weather.

Eckart said however, that House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, wants hearings to proceed so that a cost estimate can be nailed down and presented to the finance committee, which is studying the budget.

Late last year, the governor said he would propose to the legislature a "life line" program under which Ohio's elderly and indigent would receive state and possibly federal subsidies to help them pay skyrocketing gas and electric bills.

Rhodes envisioned a program under which the state would earmark about $25 million a year from utility excise taxes, and attempt to acquire the same amount in matching funds from the federal government. Eckart's bill would cost the state about $25 million a year, he said.

The governor conceded he had no recommendations as of that time as to how his program would be administered to the nonelderly poor. But he expressed a belief the subsidies could go out in the form of a supplement to welfare checks.

Eckart said the Public Utilities Commission is looking into the possibility of federal matching funds. "If we can get federal funds, then we would try to expand our bill to include poor families not eligible for homestead," the second-term Cuyahoga County lawmaker said.

Circleville Postmaster Retires

Harry L. Payne retired Friday from his position as Circleville Postmaster. He states poor health as the main reason for the decision.

Payne was appointed to the Circleville Post Nov. 23, 1974. Before that time, he worked at the Columbus office as clerk, service postal unit technician, foreman of mails, assistant superintendent, and superintendent.

Jack M. Green, manager of Station G in Columbus, has been appointed officer-in-charge for the present time. The postmaster to follow Payne will be selected very soon.

Payne suffered a heart attack Sept. 4, 1975, which prompted the retirement decision. He is presently living in Columbus and plans to "take it easy."

Heart Attacks Not Sudden

The main cause of heart attack is a fatty buildup in the arteries that blocks the supply of oxygenated blood to the heart.

"About 650,000 Americans will die of heart attack this year. Every one of us, very young to very old, has some amount of fatty buildup," says Dr. Charles R. Hedges, Medical Advisor, Pickaway County, Heart Association.

"It's called atherosclerosis," Dr. Hedges said, "and although it can start early in life, the buildup can be slowed by controlling risk factors."

Smoking, high blood pressure and a diet high in saturated fats and cholesterol are major risk factors in heart disease. "Imagine," said Dr. Hedges, "the combination of partly clogged arteries, plus constriction caused by smoking, with high blood pressure straining the artery walls. Prevention is tremendously important in reducing premature death from heart and blood vessel diseases."

"High blood pressure has been found in teenagers," Dr. Hedges said, "all the more reason why regular medical checkups should begin at an early age. Lack of exercise and obesity are also considered risk factors for heart attack — factors which take their toll over the years."

Because you may be with someone who will have a heart attack someday, it is important to recognize the early warning signals of heart attack: uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of the chest (which may spread to the shoulders, neck or arms) and which lasts for more than 2 minutes. Severe pain, dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur. Sharp stabbing twinges of pain are usually not signals of a heart attack.

"Just knowing the warning signals will save many lives, because prompt emergency care can save many of the 350,000 who die before they reach the hospital. Most important is prevention, however, and the American Heart Association has prepared and distributed educational materials on both prevention and early warning signals," said Dr. Hedges.

"Still, it costs money to do these things," Dr. Hedges reminded, "and that's why the volunteers will be asking for your money in their February Heart Campaign. They're asking for money to help an organization that is in fact fighting for your life."

Winter Driving Hints Given

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Digging your car out of the snow and ice is only the beginning of the battle when it comes to driving during the winter.

Advance preparations and knowing what to do in dangerous situations are the keys to safety and it pays to review some of the basics before you set out.

The first thing to remember in ice or snow is to start slowly. The trick is to give the wheels enough power to keep below the point where they start spinning. Use drive, not low, in an automatic shift car; in a stick shift car, starting in second or third may help.

Keep the front wheels as straight as possible. The rolling resistance of the wheels is lessened when they are not trying to move sideways.

If your wheels keep spinning and the vehicle doesn't move, stop and let the tires cool before trying again. The spinning heats the tires and the heated tires will simply dig a deeper rut.

If nothing works, you can try rocking the car out of a rut by shifting from reverse to second gear in a car with manual transmission or reverse to drive in a car with automatic transmission. Go as far backward as you can, then switch and go forward, alternating directions several times. The few inches you gain each time may be enough to get you going.

Reminder: If you have a car with an automatic transmission, check your owners' manual to see whether you will damage the transmission if you try the rocking procedure.

Once you're moving, keep plenty of distance between you and the other cars. Loosely packed snow can lengthen braking distance at 20 miles per hour on dry pavement from 20 feet to 60 feet with conventional tires. (Even with snow tires, it will take an extra 50 feet to stop.)

Be careful braking. When possible, shift to a lower gear to use the braking power of the engine rather than the brakes themselves. Don't brake in the middle of a curve.

If you go into a skid, take your foot off the brake. If you skid while driving, take your foot off the accelerator and turn the steering wheel in the direction of the skid.

Ohio Rural Crime On Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study of crime in rural Ohio shows its on the increase with vandalism the most frequent.

The researchers found that all types of crime in rural areas rose 305 per cent from 1965 through 1974.

That includes only the crimes reported to police, and the researchers said many other crimes, particularly vandalism, are not reported to authorities.

The three-year project was conducted by Ohio State University's College of Agriculture with $170,119 from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. The LEAA released the report Sunday.

The crime increase is gradually ending the rural tradition of leaving doors unlocked, the report said.

"This tradition has changed. Sixty per cent of rural Ohioans always lock the doors to their residences when leaving." And 81 per cent lock the doors at night.

But 17 per cent rarely if ever lock the doors when leaving, and 11 per cent only occasionally lock up at night.

The study involved questioning 669 rural families in Athens, Hocking, Perry, Clark, Fayette, Madison, Ashland, Medina and Wayne counties.

In addition, nearly 600 tenthgrade students in three rural high schools responded to questionnaires in another part of the study. The schools were not identified. The research was carried out in 1975.

"By any definition, vandalism is the leading crime in rural Ohio," the report concluded. "Thirty-eight per cent of all crimes occurring to rural people or happening in rural areas were committed by vandals."

The vandalism usually involved spray-painting or otherwise defacing mailboxes but also included breaking windows and damaging cars, shrubs, and a broad range of other property.

The researchers blamed young people for most rural crime, noting that 74 per cent of those arrested in 1973 in the surveyed areas were under 30.

"Those under 18 years of age account for 59 per cent of all rural vandalism offenders arrested in 1973," the report continued.

Fifty-two per cent of the high school sophomores responding to the questionnaire confessed to at least one act of vandalism, the report said.

The majority listed themselves as church members but about half of them said they, too, had engaged in vandalism.

Rhodes Heads Delegation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes will lead an Ohio delegation to Houston Thursday for a meeting with energy suppliers in the Southwest in the state's ongoing search for natural gas.

Advertisements in major Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana newspapers have been used to invite suppliers to the day-long session that is to be in a Houston hotel.

Rhodes is taking representatives from Columbia Gas of Ohio, Dayton Power & Light Co., Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. and East Ohio Gas Co. in addition to state energy officials, educators, labor leaders and state oil distributors.

"We are using this method to bring sellers and buyers together as a part of our necessary effort to ease the fuel shortage both now and next year," Rhodes said.

Rhodes, in announcing the Texas trip, predicted next year's energy problems will be worse and said the trip is aimed at forestalling school and industrial shutdowns then as well as easing current problems.

Weather

Mostly cloudy with some snow today and a high in the 30s. Cloudy, windy and cold tonight and Tuesday. The low tonight will be 10 to 15 with Tuesday's high in the low 20s. Chances of precipitation, 70 per cent today, 50 per cent tonight and 20 per cent Tuesday. Saturday's high was 44 with a low of 35. Sunday's high was 37 with a low of 30. There is still two inches of snow on the ground.

Sniper Barricades In Plant; 6 Shot

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — A man armed with a rifle shot at least six persons, including four police officers, and then fired at police from a moving firm's warehouse today, police said.

The gunman, described by an employee of the Neptune Worldwide Moving Co. as a worker recently suspended, barged into the warehouse and began firing just before 8 a.m., police said.

A policeman said the gunman was holding a wounded man hostage and a spokesman at New Rochelle police headquarters said it was believed there were other hostages inside the building.

Three wounded policemen were taken to New Rochelle Hospital, but the fourth remained lying on the ground outside the warehouse. The gunman, described as a strapping, tattooed man with an M16 rifle, kept officers from rescuing their comrade.

The rifleman fired both from inside the warehouse and from the roof of the building.

A company employee said that up to 50 persons could have been reporting for work when the shootings began. Many of them ran out the back door of the warehouse when the shooting began.

Police wearing bullet-proof vests and carrying high-powered weapons cordoned off a two-block area around the warehouse they took up positions in nearby buildings. At 10 a.m., a steel-gray, armored personnel carrier from the New York Police Dept. arrived at the scene and moved near the warehouse.

The wounded policeman still at the scene was lying in the line of fire. A company employee who had escaped said at least two employees of the moving company had been shot inside the building.

Clint Wynant, the employee, said the gunman shot the two persons in the chest. "He got them point blank," Wynant said. "They weren't moving. They looked dead."

Wynant said the gunman walked into the warehouse just before 8 a.m. "He just started shooting and everybody started running all over the place. He walked in and everybody started screaming and running. It was just mayhem."

Entry Fee Up At Guggenheim

NEW YORK (AP) — The Guggenheim Museum recently increased its general admission from $1 to $1.50. admission for students and senior citizens to the Frank Lloyd Wright-designed building is 75 cents. The museum is open free on Tuesday from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices declined again today, continuing the downtrend of the first six weeks of the year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped a fraction in early trading. Losers outnumbered gainers by a 4-3 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was still weighed down by concern over energy problems that have come to the fore because of bad weather this winter.

Over the weekend John F. O'Leary, the federal energy administrator, said President Carter's administration would institute energy policies that would mean higher prices, along with measures designed to curb excessive consumption of gasoline and other fuels.

Today's prices included Royal Dutch Petroleum, down 1/4 at 54 1/4; Westinghouse Electric, off 1/2 at 16 1/2; and General Motors, unchanged at 69 3/4.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 6.40 to a new 1977 closing low of 931.52.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about an 8-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 20.51 million shares, the lightest total since New Year's Eve.

The NYSE's composite index lost .32 to 54.57.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .65 at 112 even.

Historic Sites Are In Constant Motion

CINCINNATI (AP) — Four of the hundreds of sites listed on the National Register of Historic Places are moving vehicles.

Two are in Louisville, Ky., including the "Belle of Louisville," a harbor excursion paddlewheel which is America's oldest operating steamboat, and locomotive No. 152, the oldest known surviving example of a high speed passenger "Pacific" type steam locomotive.

On the West Coast, there are the famous cable cars of San Francisco. And still steaming the more than 3,000 miles of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers is the "Delta Queen," which from 1952 through 1976 was America's only overnight passenger steamboat.

Talks Slated On Cyprus Partition

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Greek and Turkish Cypriots have agreed to begin negotiations recognizing the partitioning of Cyprus into Greek and Turkish zones and joining them in a federation, U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim has announced.

Waldheim told a news conference Sunday that the negotiations will begin in Vienna in late March. The announcement was made following a dinner Saturday night at which Waldheim met with President Makarios, the leader of the Greek Cypriots, and Rauf Denkash, the leader of the Turkish Cypriots.

"For the first time, we have a chance to solve the Cyprus problem," said Waldheim before leaving for Vienna.

The agreement represented a major concession by the Greek majority to the Turks, who have long demanded they be allowed to live in security under their own administration.

In return, Denkash said the Turks will return part of northern Cyprus now held by Turkish troops who invaded the island in 1974 and captured about 35 per cent of the island. He did not say how the Turks might give up.

Some 200,000 Greek Cypriots fled from the area taken by the Turks. They are demanding to return to their homes, but the Turkish Cypriot population totals only about 120,000.

Makarios said his meeting with Denkash and Waldheim was a positive step, but "the distance to a final solution is probably long."

Makarios and Denkash met last month for the first time in 13 years, raising hopes that negotiations on the island might begin soon.

Waldheim said he planned to confer in Vienna in a few days with Clark Clifford, a special emissary appointed by President Carter to work on the Cyprus problem.

Bess Truman Turns 92

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Bess Truman, affectionately referred to as "the boss" by the late former President Harry S. Truman, quietly observed her 92nd birthday Sunday.

"My daughter's here, so that's going to make my birthday," Mrs. Truman said Saturday.

Margaret Truman Daniel arrived here from New York last Monday and was expected to return to her home today.

She said her mother is in good health except for an arthritic condition that has ended traditional trips to the nearby Truman Library and the supermarket. She still visits the beauty parlor weekly.

Friends say that she reads, watches television, keeps in touch with close friends by telephone, and responds to a considerable volume of correspondence. She lives alone in the white, victorian-style home that once served as the summer White House.

Argentine Exports To Italy

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Italy is the largest importer of Argentine products, and represents 10 per cent of all Argentine sales abroad.

Argentina exported $172 million of products, principally corn, to Italy during the first six months of the year. The U.S.S.R., which imports wheat, is Argentina's second largest importer.

Miss Lillian In India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Carter's mother, Lillian, planned to fly to Bombay tonight for a visit to the clinic where she was a Peace Corps nurse 10 years ago. The trip follows a cordial visit with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, whom she blasted four months ago.

Now 78, Mrs. Carter served in India from 1966 to 1968. At 67, she was the Peace Corps' oldest volunteer.

She and the president's 26-year-old son Chip represented the United States at the funeral Sunday of India's President Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed. Afterward, they met for about 45 minutes with Mrs. Gandhi and her family.

"I am deeply touched that Mrs. Carter should have come to India and brought her grandson," Mrs. Gandhi told reporters. "We are very happy Mr. Carter was elected president. An American woman had written me a letter prophesying he would win and so I was forewarned."

Pancho Villa's real name was Doroteo Arango. He was born in the state of Durango in northern Mexico in 1877. He was assassinated in 1923.

Action Eyed To Combat U.S. Drought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Momentum is building in Congress for some sort of major governmental action to deal with the problems of continued drought in the American West.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., has urged Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland to order a study of the impact of heavy snow and frigid winds in the Midwest and East and lack of water-producing snowpacks in the West.

At the same time, 20 House members from the Northwest, northern Great Plains and Rocky Mountain states wrote President Carter to urge immediate disaster relief plans, full assessments of crop damage and of power shortages in areas depending on water-generated electricity.

The Fertilizer Institute, meeting in Chicago, said this spring could bring a "logistical nightmare" to the industry and to farmers who need its products, because of reduced natural-gas supplies and tied-up transportation networks.

The National Farmers Union cautioned its members not to overreact to weather-disrupted markets in making their planting and shipping decisions and thus hurt themselves on prices even more.

And Rep. Al Baldus, D-Wis., introduced legislation that would direct Bergland to set up a drought-predicting system for the future — a weather-monitoring system Bergland has already said he hopes to make the hallmark of his USDA tenure.

Pair Takes Outing Across Lake Erie

CLEVELAND (AP) — While most people were enjoying the short reprieve from the rotten winter this weekend, Wesley Schalamon and Daniel C. Greene took a little outing on Lake Erie and hiked across ice knolls into Canada.

The 43-year-old Schalamon of Valley City in Medina County and 24-year-old Greene of Cleveland walked 30 miles from Catawba Point on the Ohio side to Colchester, Ontario, in Canada.

"We were really in fairly good shape

Weigh Station Attendants Prove 'Sharp'

EATON, Ohio (AP) — Don't try any funny stuff, truckers, the weigh station inspectors around this part of the country can "feel" when you are not operating strictly within the law.

It could be because close to 400,000 trucks a year roll by only a few feet away, but weigh station officials claim they have intuitive feelings about the big rigs.

Acting on one of those feelings last summer, Bill Hines decided to take a closer look at the 1976 Highway Use Tax sticker on the window of a truck which pulled into his station on I-70 at the Ohio-Indiana border.

It turned out to be a counterfeit and the counterfeiter was fined $100. Last year about 250 citations were written by the Ohio State Highway Patrol for HUT violations at the Eaton station.

"There's a lot of ways to dummy the highway use tax sticker," Hines said. "We don't catch them all."

The primary duty of the stations is to weigh trucks to insure they are within the legal load limit. But truckers get more than that.

"You look for everything," said inspector Dick Hurd, who has worked at the I-70 station since it opened in 1965. "We look for safety items like worn tires and faulty exhaust systems."

Last year 352 citations were written for overloads.

In many cases the load is not overweight but out of legal balance, a condition which a really cagey driver can correct in trucks equipped with a device for shifting axle position.

"A guy's gotta be really good at it and some can fool us," Hurd said.

Then there are those drivers who drive right past the station without bothering to stop.

"We call them by-passers and most of them do it because they're daydreaming, not because they're trying to pull something," Hurd said. "But the state patrol chases them down."

The weigh stations are open only 16 hours a day. Hours aren't the same everyday, however. If the truckers don't know when the station is open and closed it is more difficult for them to outfox the operators, weigh station officials say.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

Forewarned is forearmed — and this week's raid by Drug Enforcement Administration agents on a $2 million-a-month heroin manufacturing operation in Irvine, California, should be warning enough that the deadly narcotics trade is very much alive and threatening.

Only days before the raid on what is believed to be the first illegal heroin-producing laboratory discovered in the United States, I co-sponsored a resolution to reauthorize establishment of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, which was first created in August of last year, but whose authority expired with the end of the 94th Congress.

This Congress and this select committee, if it is reauthorized, must show the same diligence and determination in its war against illicit drug traffickers as that demonstrated by the traffickers themselves.

It should come as no surprise that the California heroin laboratory was believed financed by organized crime figures from the East Coast. As the select committee learned from a trip to the "drug pits" of Harlem last fall, the syndicates which peddle narcotics don't let up.

They don't worry about the energy crisis. They don't let a natural gas shortage in Ohio or anywhere else interfere with their lethal operations. They prey on helpless addicts during all seasons of the year.

And while Congress moves swiftly to relieve those victimized by the natural gas crisis and searches for long-term solutions as well, we must also stay on the offensive against drug profiteers who claim thousands of victims of their own.

The buyers and pushers of heroin, cocaine, and other harmful drugs don't worry about the nation's high rate of unemployment. Theirs is a lucrative, if sordid, trade in which they realize a maximum amount of profit and, all too often, with a minimum amount of risk.

Increasing that risk factor is part of the job facing the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control. We must toughen our laws against drug trafficking and maintain rigid enforcement, making the risk factor so high that it will be unwise, unsafe, and unprofitable for those who direct illicit narcotic traffic in this country, and indeed throughout the world.

The problem is an international one. Developments abroad have a direct bearing on drug trafficking in the United States. And the flow of illicit drugs across our borders has taken its toll on our physical and financial resources.

Drug abuse costs this nation up to $17 billion annually. As much as half of our street crime is drug-related. Worst of all, more than 5,000 Americans, most of them young adults, die needlessly each year because of drug abuse.

Halting the illicit drug trade at its international sources is the goal of the French-U.S. Canadian Intergovernmental Committee for Drug Control. Members of the Select Committee met in November with members of the Inter-governmental Committee to map international cooperative strategy to combat increased supplies of heroin from the Far East and the growing threat of a revival of the old Turkish-French Connection heroin trail.

Other cooperative efforts are also paying off. The Mexican Government's opium eradication program last year resulted in the seizure of heroin and the destruction of poppy fields which would have produced some $625 million in U.S. street prices.

If reauthorized, the Select Committee can continue its investigations into international narcotic trafficking, enforcement, prevention, narcotics-related violations of our tax laws, organized crime, drug abuse in our Armed Forces, treatment and rehabilitation, and the approach of our criminal justice system with respect to narcotics law violations and crimes related to drug abuse.

Instead of the fragmented approach that our government has been taking through the seven standing House committees, seven cabinet departments, and 17 different agencies involved in some aspect of drug abuse

Bowling Green U Accepts Grants

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green State University has accepted $1.4 million in grants and contracts for January, bringing the total since July 1976 to $4.64 million.

Most of the January grants were in the form of state and federal grants for student financial aid. They totaled more than $1.3 million.

control, the Select Committee will provide a coordinated governmental approach to seeking a solution to the problem.

Clearly, we have been forewarned. And hopefully, with a dedicated and effective Select Committee concentrating on the problem, we will be forewarned as well.

GTE Adds Equipment

WILLIAMSPORT — Installation of a major addition of call-switching equipment for growth and service improvement in the Williamsport exchange is under way, General Telephone Co. of Ohio announced today.

William D. Anderson, Circleville customer service manager, said the $34,900 expansion is designed to upgrade service and provide for future growth.

Included in the project will be the addition of equipment for 200 new customer lines and 200 new terminals. "Equipment additions of this type are the direct result of needs indicated by our studies and forecasts," Anderson said. "This allows us to plan for orderly growth within a given area."

The Williamsport exchange serves 536 customers in a 53.8-square-mile area of Pickaway and Ross counties.

Y Notes

A special training and learning session on the Pickaway County YMCA's "Prevent Program" will be held 8 to 10 p.m. Thursday.

Two films will be shown. Also exercises will be demonstrated and blood pressure and pulse checks made. Exercises will be performed.

Colleges Still Operate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The energy crisis has college students shivering in their classrooms but colleges and universities throughout the state are staying open and attempting to conduct business as usual.

"None of the state institutions are closed," Henry Whitcomb, director of financial management for the Ohio Board of Regents, said Friday.

"All are making efforts to conserve energy, of course," he said. "They are reducing thermostats and cutting the number of hours buildings such as libraries are open, but they are not shutting down."

The board of regents supervises 38 campuses in Ohio.

Most of them have central heating plants, Whitcomb said. Some use natural gas, but have oil or coal as standby.

Some schools are closing isolated buildings not on central campuses that use natural gas.

IRS Urges Double Check Of SS Numbers

Taxpayers should make sure that the correct Social Security numbers are listed on their 1977 tax returns. When an incorrect Social Security number appears, the processing of the return is slowed and any refund due could be delayed, the Internal Revenue Service said.

To help avoid this problem, taxpayers should use the peel-off label included in the tax package received in the mail. This label contains the name, address and Social Security number of the taxpayer. If the Social Security number or other information listed is incorrect, the correct information should be written in right on the label, according to the IRS.

If a taxpayer has had a change in name since last year, a local office of the Social Security Administration should be contacted so that the taxpayer's new name will correspond to his or her Social Security number.

The Social Security number of both husband and wife must be listed on joint returns, the IRS said, even for couples with only one income source or one spouse working.

Forthright Stand

In the opening weeks of the Carter administration, the President has stated his intention to pursue the issue of human rights the world over in any forum available to him. Beginning with his inaugural address, in which Mr. Carter said: "Because we are free we can never be indifferent to the fate of freedom elsewhere," the President has waded into the issue with no hesitation.

That is a refreshing change from the past, when the plight of political prisoners, refugees and other harassed nationals received lip service from Washington and little else. The nation should applaud the new, frank approach.

But there is a danger inherent in pursuing the issue which may not be realized by those now doing so. It has nothing to do with a quid pro quo from the Soviet Union and others who may not wish to hear such words. It has to do with consistency.

Now that the ice has been broken by the new administration, it must not vacillate in the face of criticism from the Soviets or anyone else. To back off once a stand on such a fundamental issue has been made would be the most destructive form of appeasement.

Undoubtedly some of the world capitals have been surprised, even shocked, by the blunt words on a subject usually handled by diplomats with kid gloves, when it is dealt with at all. The surprise will turn to gratitude and admiration if time reveals the administration means what it says.

The Last Thing

By JIM BISHOP

It was an average day. The laundry hose busted and we had a foot of suds in the back hall. The dog chewed one black shoe. My wife was giving me the silent treatment. Arthritis was bending my fingers like Godzilla's. The rain was cold.

Average. I needed a smile. Something bright and lulling, like a quart of whiskey. Instead, I read Gerald Storch's article in the Miami Herald about those luxurious condominiums for the dead. Some call them mausoleums, but the word is archaic, like honesty and virtue and similar relics.

The last time I visited such a condo was in California, where the movie stars never die; they sleep under huge sunbursts and stereo music. The guy in charge of the music hasn't had a request in 30 years.

Mr. Storch feels we're using too much real estate planting people. In the future, most of us are going to be six feet up, rather than down. All of which lifted my mood off the cellar floor and left it hanging off the beams.

An executive of a memorial park says that the move to file us above ground is an "appeal to the masses, mainly from a conservation standpoint." When I go, pal, conservation is going to be on the bottom of my list of things to worry about.

The things I do not know about dying are absolutely stunning. "For one thing, a mausoleum strikes many people as a more attractive, clean method of disposition." What's clean? They're going to sanitize me? Besides, I don't want to be disposed of. Which reminds me, I know what she's mad about. The garbage...

"When you go in that place," a lady says, "it's beautiful. They have music. It's a better feeling. You won't mind going there when you have to go."

Madame, I mind. I have no plans to go anywhere where I am not vertical and laughing. If you like the music, you go. Ask the condo owner if I can get something off the retail price if I promise never to listen to the lively tunes.

He says, "We've had many school children come in on tours. Their first experience with death is pleasant and exciting and they're learning new things." I have a mental oil painting of my girls coming home begging, "Oh, daddy, Can I go? Pretty please?"

When my kids go, it's going to be in the calm manner of their old man: kicking, biting, clawing. I may even refuse to go - whaddya think of that? It's hardly two weeks on old Cape Cod.

In addition, I am opposed to snobbery. Some of the condos charge more if your slot is close to the chapel. People are filed six deep and the preferred - ha, ha - places are second level ("heart") and third level, ("eye").

The sixth level is higher, cheaper and, of course, no elevator service. "They can't read your name as well. They get a crick in their neck." None of these fascinating items have ever occurred to me. As I write this, none of it occurs to me now.

And yet, it must lift your spirits to know that some of these body-building joints have circulating air among the tombs. For a little more than a thousand a rattle, you can breathe if you're in the mood.

The more I think about death the less I think about it. When Kelly was young, she begged me to buy a couple of plots. Now she's a little older and the subject never comes up. Sometimes, at a funeral, she's as stiff as rigor mortis.

When a buddy died of cirrhosis, the

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the world of business and economics one is forever hearing from alleged experts who are convinced the world can remain in one piece only if it accepts their interpretations and conclusions.

Since the fissures in the face of the world suggest the experts aren't being listened to, or else that their interpretations might be somewhat inaccurate, why not give them an assist?

Here are some situations of enormous consequences, the precise interpretations of which are left to you:

1. The supply of college graduates expected to enter the civilian labor force from 1974 to 1985 is about 13.1 million, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

This is about 950,000 more than the number of projected job openings for college graduates.

The proportion of employed persons who were college graduates grew from 1 of every 10 in 1959 to 1 of every 6 in 1974, and it is expected that the proportion will become nearly 1 of 5 by the mid-1980s.

While this doesn't necessarily mean that college-trained youths will find themselves on the street without work, it almost inevitably means that many will be underemployed and dissatisfied.

Some questions that merit your attention:

—Why are we encouraging so many youngsters to go to college?

—Why do so many jobs once performed by high school graduates now require a college degree?

—In our insistence on college degrees, are we lowering the quality of college work?

2. Women are spending more years of their lives at work, while men are spending less.

According to government figures, women's work-life expectancy rose from 15.2 in 1950 to 22.9 years in 1970. During the same period, the figures for men declined to 41.1 years from 41.9 years.

The experts often interpret this to mean that women are becoming more independent, more liberated from family chores, more assertive in exercising their skills.

It wouldn't, however, be the first time that women have fooled the experts. Clearly, there are consequences that are not immediately apparent, even to the experts.

3. Americans are used to hearing their country described as the richest in the world. But in terms of per-capita income the description no longer applies. Americans are in sixth place, the World Bank says.

Kuwait, with per person income of $11,510, leads the list, followed by United Arab Emirates, at $10,480, and Qatar, $8,320. Outside the oil bloc, Switzerland, at $8,050, and Sweden, $7,880, are tops.

U.S. per capita income in 1975 came to $7,060, or just ahead of Denmark, at $6,920, Canada, at $6,650, Germany, at $6,610, and Norway, $6,540.

Liquor Sales Show Drop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Liquor was the only thing that Ohioans didn't buy more of last year, according to a recent report by the Ohio State University Center for Business and Economic Research.

Retail sales for 1976 were higher than in any previous year, the report states. They were 9 per cent higher than 1975.

The only category in which 1976 sales did not show gains over the year before was liquor sales. Researchers say state liquor store sales showed a 1 per cent decline from 1975.

The record month for buying was December, 1976, when sales were 12 per cent higher than the previous December.

According to the report, motor vehicle dealers led all other retailers, recording a 28 per cent increase in 1976 over 1975.

Lumber and building material dealers came in second with a 15 per cent increase, followed by food stores, up 14 per cent, and heating-plumbing and electrical supply stores, up 13 per cent.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is there any legal way that I can get my husband to stop driving his car? He's always getting into some kind of accident. I'm scared to death that one day he'll kill someone or himself. He's furious because I won't get into the car with him. He's 77. His legs are full of arthritis.

Mrs. H. R., Ohio

Dear Mrs. R.:

The appalling statistics of more than 50,000 deaths a year on the highway are realistic enough to justify your freight. Unfortunately, the legal restrictions on drivers before they have a major accident are not sufficient to take the handicapped driver off the road.

When I say "handicapped" I do not refer to those handicapped people who are driving cars that are specially equipped for their needs. The Bureau of Statistics has confirmed that these people are the safest and most careful drivers on the road.

The handicapped drivers I specifically referred to are those whose reflexes are diminished and therefore whose ability to manipulate steering, braking and acceleration must necessarily suffer. Ironically, these are often the very people who refuse to recognize their physical and emotional inadequacies. These are the very people who make the automobile a lethal weapon that threatens their own lives and the lives of those with whom they come in contact.

Many states now demand rigid physical and mental tests in an effort to weed out incompetent or unreliable drivers. It is shameful how many people who have been responsible for injury, and even death, are still legally permitted to drive their cars. I have often said that anyone, at any age, who has had a major accident simply because they should not have been driving in the first place should be permanently barred from getting behind the wheel of a car. Anyone who once has been convicted of drunken driving responsible for death or serious injury should, in my opinion, have his license revoked.

Doctors must play a vital role in preserving the safety of the community by suggesting that people with known impairments should not be allowed to drive in the interest of their own safety as well as that of others.

People with known neurological disease, those who suffer from sudden attacks of dizziness, or people with impaired vision and deficient hearing, arthritic incapacitation of the arms and the legs, incomplete recovery from strokes, or those who are subject to convulsions should not drive a car.

Many people at the age of 77 are excellent drivers. Age alone is not the criterion. It is the physical or emotional impairment that should determine the right of the individual to continue to drive.

Tax Credit Plan Would Help Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Single persons and couples with gross incomes above $20,000 a year might face an added tax burden under President Carter's plan to replace the personal income tax exemption with a tax credit.

The switch to a straight tax credit of $240 or $250 per person would aid lower-income taxpayers, who now draw less benefit from the $750 per person tax exemption than do wealthier taxpayers.

Congressional tax experts say the substitution by itself would mean a higher tax bill for about 30 million taxpayers, while up to 40 million would realize a saving.

However, the White House emphasized that the credit in lieu of exemption would be only one facet of the tax revision plan Carter will send to Congress later this year. No other facet of the plan has been revealed.

Experts on Capitol Hill predict the plan will include an across-the-board tax cut or other provisions to reduce the number of persons who would pay more taxes.

The tax credit concept picked up swift backing in Congress on Friday, as the chairmen of both congressional committees concerned with tax legislation said they favored the plan.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said a switch to a tax credit would mean a simpler federal tax return and more equitable treatment for low-income persons. Long said he assumed Carter would propose other steps such as an across-the-board rate cut.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., said through an aide, "I think (a credit) is probably the way we'll go." Ullman noted that taxpayers already receive a $35 tax credit.

That credit, like the tax exemption, would be scrapped in favor of a larger credit.

Credits are subtracted directly from the bottom line of the tax bill, after all other tax computations are worked out. A $250 tax credit is worth precisely $250 in taxes saved for everyone, rich or poor.

In contrast, the tax exemption or deduction, used to reduce the amount of income subject to taxes, is worth more as income rises.

The Law And The Abused Child

By BEVERLY S. BECHTEL
County Extension Agent,
Home Economics

What is the legal definition of "child abuse and child neglect?" Where is the legal line between parents' rights to discipline and a child's right to humane treatment?

Since 1963 when the first child abuse reporting laws were enacted, they have been almost universally broadened. Ohio, like many states, has recently rewritten and strengthened its laws pertaining to child neglect and abuse.

The most notable changes are the inclusion of not only physical but emotional abuse, an expansion of the list of those people required to report suspected cases of abuse or neglect, the establishment of a separate classification for abused children under juvenile court law, and the permitting of reports to be made directly to County Welfare Departments of Children's Services Boards. (Formerly this must be reported to a law agency.)

An abused child is defined as any child who is the victim of sexual activity or is endangered (subjected to a substantial risk to health or safety thru violation of a duty of care, protection, or support, or who is tortured or cruelly abused, corporally punished or otherwise disciplined or physically restrained in a cruel manner or for a prolonged period), also a child who exhibits evidence of any injury or death inflicted other than by accidental means or which is at variance with the history given of it. (Injuries days old, but said to have just occurred!)

Briefly, the Ohio Revised Code defines a neglected child as one who is abandoned by the adults who are to care for him, who lacks proper parental care because of faults or habits these adults have, or a child who lacks medical and surgical care—including special care necessitated by a mental condition—or the proper or necessary subsistence, education or other care necessary for his health, morals, or well being because the adult in charge of the child neglects or refuses to provide him with these necessities.

For example, any child under six months to one year who is spanked (whether severely or not) is abused. Also, any child in the same age range who fails to gain weight at home and yet gains weight in a hospital can be considered neglected. In both cases, the child's health is in jeopardy, and if action is not taken more severe abuse and possible injury may result.

The new bill adds the abused child to the list of children legally without proper parental care or guardianship and puts abused children with either dependent, neglected, and delinquent children under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court. If you compare the old version of the Ohio Revised Code thru these sections with the new bill, you will see the Code has been amended to add the abused child each time mention is made of the neglected and dependent child.

The expanded list of persons required to report suspected child abuse or neglect include: attorneys, licensed practical nurses, other health care professionals, licensed psychologists, speech pathologists or audiologists, coroners, administrators or employees of a child day care center, administrators or employees of a certified child care agency, or other public or private children's services agency—in addition to those previously on the list: physicians, hospital interns or residents, dentists, podiatrists, practitioners of a limited branch of medicine, or surgery, school teachers, school authorities, social workers, persons rendering spiritual treatment thru prayer; making it the legal duty of ALL persons to report cases of suspected child abuse or neglect formally recognizes that this is a community problem, and the new bill does just this by continuing:

Anyone having reason to believe that a child less than 18 years of age or any crippled or otherwise physically or mentally handicapped child under twenty-one years of age, has suffered any wound, injury, disability or other condition of such nature as to reasonably indicate abuse or neglect of such child, may report or cause reports to be made of such information to the Children's Services Board or the County Department of Welfare or to a municipal or County Peace Officer.

There seems to be a "quandary" in the minds of most people when it comes to reporting child abuse. No decent person can condone child suffering, yet there seems to be something unAmerican in some people's minds about interfering in the parent-child relationship.

This may date back to Victorian thinking, when a child was thought of as a miniature adult who deserved the same severe treatment adults received at that time. Modern knowledge of child development demands a more humane attitude towards all people, big and little. Then, too, it's easier for some people to tolerate child abuse than "get involved" in helping improve the quality of life. The next article deals with "Are you a Witness to Child Abuse?"

Flood Insurance Possibility For Fairfield County

Due to the unusual weather conditions this winter, there has been much concern about the possibility of heavy flooding in Fairfield County this spring.

Many residents of the County have inquired in recent weeks about flood insurance. It is commonly understood that flood damage is not covered in traditional homeowner's policies, but the flood insurance is available through a Federally subsidized program administered by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). In the past, the HUD flood insurance has not been available in the unincorporated portions of Fairfield County.

Due to unprecedented interest by the residents of the County in the problem, the Fairfield County Commissioners are investigating the possibility of obtaining this HUD flood insurance for the entire County. It should be emphasized that the program, offers flood insurance at reasonable rates, but also necessitates more stringent regulation of building activity in flood-prone areas. In order to get public input, the Commissioners will hold two public hearings outlining the program—and Fairfield County's involvement in it.

These hearings will be held at 7 p.m., March 3, 1977, and 9 a.m., March 4, 1977. Both hearings will be held on the third floor of the County Court House. All persons concerned about flood insurance are urged to attend.

Gambling Income Must Be Reported

CINCINNATI — Taxpayers must report all winnings from gambling as income on their tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said.

For tax purposes, gambling activities cover raffles, lotteries, horse racing and bingo games. The IRS considers cash won as prizes in contests and as awards from employers to be taxable income.

Non-cash prizes such as household appliances, all-expense paid vacations, and cars won as prizes or donated by employers, must be included in income at fair market value. Taxpayers should report all winnings on the Form 1040 under the category of "Other Income," the IRS said.

If a taxpayer loses money while gambling, the taxpayer may deduct his or her gambling losses on Schedule A of Form 1040, to the extent of winnings. For example, a taxpayer who loses $200 and wins $150 during the tax year may deduct $150 on his or her itemized deduction schedule in addition to reporting the $150 as income. A taxpayer must have records to substantiate gambling losses, such as racing stubs or lottery tickets, the IRS said.

If a prize or award is payable at some future time, at the option of whomever is giving the prize, the amount is not taxable as income until the taxpayer either receives it, or the prize is made available to him or her.

Corn Champs Announced

National Corn Growers Association announced today Ohio Winners in the 1976 National twenty-five acre Corn Yield Contest.

First place in Ohio in the Class AA Non-Irrigated Division went to Mark Allison, Burgoon, with a yield of 221.77 bushels per acre.

In the Irrigated Division Elisabeth Stevenson, Circleville placed first in the state with a yield of 141.41 bushels per acre.

Following are other Winners in Ohio:

CLASS AA NON-IRRIGATED DIVISION:
2. Albert Pitzer, Leesburg, 198.91; 3. Marion Hartman, Hillsboro, 190.19.

IRRIGATED DIVISION:
2. John Stevenson, Circleville, 131.08. "The National" Corn Growers Association's competition is the only non-commercial nationwide corn yield contest requiring the largest field size of twenty-five acres. The contest has been conducted for 12 years.

Over 1,000 corn producers from 46 states competed for the top national trophies and foreign trips. The 1976 contest had 43 entries in the Irrigated Contest, 10 entries in the Class AA Non-Irrigated Division; and 3 in the Class A Non-Irrigated Division with over 200 bushels per acre.

Trophies and awards will be presented this summer at the National Corn Growers Association awards meeting.

JDC Trustees To Meet Quarterly

The board of trustees of the South Central Ohio Regional Juvenile Detention Center Chillicothe, will hold regular meetings in 1977 on a quarterly basis.

The meetings will be held at the center 7 p.m. the third Thursday in March, June and September.

The December meeting will be an annual combined dinner meeting of all commissioners, judges and trustees at a local restaurant. The date and time of that meeting will be announced later.

In addition, the trustees will hold their annual organizational meeting the first Tuesday in May 7 p.m. at the center.

Community Fund Meeting Scheduled

The Pickaway County Community Fund, Inc. will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday at 8 p.m. This important meeting will be held at the American Red Cross Chapter House. Current trustees, officers, and agency representatives should attend.

Important items of business will include: election of officers and trustees, appointment of a budget committee, and agency annual reports.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Gift Giver Gets Tax Deduction

DEAR ABBY: When someone makes a donation to a charity in the name of a friend as a Christmas gift, who gets the tax deduction?

Don't pass this off so hastily. If A sends B a card saying that he has given $100 to the American Red Cross in B's name, A has either made a gift to B, which is NOT tax deductible (B being an individual, not a charity) or he has made no gift to B.

If A has made a gift to the ARC for B, then B should claim and get the tax deduction. If A has made no gift to B, but rather a gift to the ARC, why should he brag to B about it? I object to those "gifts."

DBLINBERKELEY

DEAR DBL: The person who lays out the money for a tax deductible gift gets the deduction, not the person in whose name the donation was made.

Read on for a letter from another reader who objects to the "gift in-your-name" gift for yet another reason:

DEAR ABBY: I give to those causes in which I believe, and I do not want anyone to make a donation in MY name to any charity without my permission. I would prefer NO gift to one that identifies me (even indirectly) with some of those "worthy" causes that are not of my choosing.

WASHINGTON STAR READER

DEAR ABBY: You recently wrote that if a person receives an obscene telephone call, he can tie up the caller's line by simply not hanging up. That's not true! It's the other way around. The caller can tie up the line of the callee by not hanging up.

The callee cannot disconnect himself from the caller unless the caller hangs up!

You've probably had a thousand letters on this, but one more won't hurt.

EX-PHONE OPERATOR

DEAR EX: You're right-I called it wrong! Thank you (and the other 999 who wrote to straighten me out!)

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for six months and have put up with about as much nagging from my husband as I am going to.

Here is the problem: My 27-year-old "baby" wants me to wash his back. He claims his mother washed it for him every day when he was home. We have gotten into several fights over this. I don't need anybody to wash MY back, and I don't see why he needs somebody to wash his.

What should I do?

MARY LOU

DEAR MARY LOU: Give him "the brush"-the kind with a nice long handle on it. And don't forget the soap. (Soft.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO SHUNNED AND HEARTBROKEN IN SEATTLE: Herpes is NOT a venereal disease, and those who say it is do not know what they're talking about. It is a virus, and one of the most difficult to get rid of, but a venereal disease it is NOT!

Brenda Sharp Speaks About Crockery Cookery

The Lake Makers Homemakers Club met February 10 at the Nazarene Church.

Brenda Sharp gave an interesting and informative lesson on "Crockery Cookery."

Following the lesson refreshments were served by hostesses Linda Sharp and Debbie Simpkins.

The next meeting will be held February 24 at the Nazarene Church, with Shirley Bauer and Jacky Fletcher as hostesses. Sue Mink will present a program on macrame. Members are reminded to bring their own supplies.

Refinery Returns To Full Production

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Standard Oil Co.'s (Ohio) refinery here has returned to full production following completion of repairs to a damaged hydrosulfurization unit, officials said. A mechanical breakdown Jan. 24 forced shutdown of the catalytic reformer and hydrocracker units.

The refinery normally processes 165,000 barrels of crude oil per day. C.M. Tyler, manager of operations coordination, said the breakdown meant that 300,000 barrels of distillates and 300,000 barrels of gasoline were not produced. That volume cannot now be made up, he said, because the refinery was operating at maximum level before the breakdown.

Dr. Michael Geron Speaks To Nurses

Family practice medicine was the topic presented to the Pickaway County Professional Nurses Association by Dr. Geron for the January meeting at the home of Mrs. Virgil Anderson on Mapleview Lane.

Dr. Geron opened with a short history of family practice medicine. He briefly covered the change that took place in medicine about the end of W.W. II, when doctors coming out of the military used the G.I. Bill for further education into specialties.

In the early 60's the trend started to swing back to family centered practices. In 1969, the American Academy of family practice was formed. To be a member, one has to pass a board examination. Every 3 years, 150 hours of continued education is necessary to remain eligible to write this exam. Shortly after 1969, a three year residency for family practice was started. In 1973, there was a large number of doctors coming out of their residency to private practice. Dr. Geron said that the residency is different because the doctor is always having to prove his ability because of the many services they perform. Family practice doctors are trained in all 5 major medical areas. Family practice medicine is able to meet 85-87 per cent of all the families needs.

Dr. Geron's decision to be a family practitioner was for scientific reasons - he likes variety, and personally, he likes the initial contact with patients.

A short business meeting followed the speaker conducted by President Mrs. Joyce Peters.

Refreshments were served to the speaker Dr. Geron and Mrs. Geron, and members by the hostess and her committee Mrs. Ernest Martin and Mrs. Jim McConnell.

School Rule Announced

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has approved a plan by the Toledo public schools to balance the racial makeup of its staff.

The school system was told by HEW in September that a "substantial imbalance" exists in the assignment of minority teachers to schools.

It also maintained that the ratio of minority-group teachers and administrators to majority-group personnel in each school should be "substantially the same" as the system-wide ratio.

Twenty-four per cent of all teachers and administrators in the system are from minority groups. Emory Leverette, assistant superintendent for general administration said.

The schools' balance plan will redistribute the minority teachers and administrators so that each school has between 19 and 29 per cent minority group personnel.

Superintendent Frank Dick said he believes the plan can be carried out smoothly by relying primarily on resignations, retirements and normal transfers.

Guard Recruiting Said Successful

WORTHINGTON, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio National Guard reports its recruiting effort has been successful, with the addition of 1,000 recruits since Jan. 3.

In addition, the guard retained 48 per cent of the members who were scheduled to leave the service.

However, records show that the guard is still 1,530 persons below the authorized strength of 15,283.

Beer Sales On Sunday Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Football watchers and others who enjoy beer on Sunday may be able to run out at halftime for another six pack come next season.

The legislature is considering a bill that would permit local option elections to determine whether carry-outs and other stores should be allowed to sell high-powered beer as well as wine on the Sabbath.

Some opposition could surface and stall the legislation, but it appeared to have been well oiled when hearings got under way last week in the House State Government Committee.

As liquor bills go, this one is comparatively mild. It isn't likely to stir up the kind of controversy that boiled in 1969 when local option for Sunday sale of liquor by the drink squeaked through the legislature.

Then, as now, the Cleveland area is pushing for what is being billed this time as the "six pack" bill.

The sponsor, Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, who co-sponsored the earlier local option measure, wound up having to defend the old law under questioning by Rep. Alan Norris, R-27 Westerville.

Norris, whose home city is known as the birthplace of Prohibition and seeks to retain that image, recalled assertions on the liquor-by-the-drink bill that it would revitalize downtown Cleveland.

"I haven't been to Cleveland for four or five months, but it still looked the same to me," said Norris, whose vote against relaxation of any liquor law is always assured.

Sweeney objected, telling Rep. Michael Del Bane's committee that three new hotels have been built in downtown Cleveland since passage of Sunday liquor bill, and that its popularity as a convention site has been greatly enhanced. Other committee members ventured that the same was true in Cincinnati.

The liquor lobby all testified enthusiastically in favor of Sweeney's bill, including the Ohio Licensed Beverage Association, the Wholesale Beer Association, and the Retail CarryOut Stores Association.

Appearing for the latter group was John Connors II who, along with others, said Ohioans could take their six packs or bottles of wine home, rather than consume them in restaurants and night spots and run the risk of driving home tipsy.

When the earlier law was approved, some of the same associations pointed out that sales would be permitted only in places that sold food, and that the potential for adding to the drunk driving problem should not be considered as an important factor.

New Snow Reported In North

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite warmer temperatures over much of the nation, winter continues over a large segment of the northern states where new snow was falling early today.

River ice jams continued to cause local river flooding in West Virginia and in part of southwestern Pennsylvania.

New snow was reported light over portions of New England into northern West Virginia, eastern Ohio and across western Pennsylvania.

Colder air moving over the Northern Plains and the Great Lakes also produced scattered snow flurries across North Dakota and from northern Minnesota into parts of Michigan.

Travel advisories were issued for portions of upper Michigan and in western New York where gusty winds were causing blowing and drifting snow.

Winds were gusty in the Central Plains as a cold front and a low pressure center move southeastward. Snow fell from eastern Nebraska into Iowa. Southwest Iowa and northern Missouri had light rain. Other snow flurries dotted eastern sections of Wyoming and Colorado.

Falling temperatures froze wet paved surfaces in Rhode Island to make roads slippery.

The nation west of the Rockies continued to have mild and dry conditions.

Temperatures across the nation at 2 a.m., EST, ranged from 70 at Key West, Fla., to 11 at Marquette, Mich.

GTE Trains Employee

Darrel E. Gooman of 1955 Chickasaw Drive, a General Telephone Co. of Ohio employee, has completed a course in subscriber line systems at the company's technical training school here.

This course covers installation and maintenance of an electronic system used in remote areas to fully utilize telephone cable. Up to 96 phones can be served by two cable pairs with this system.

A central office equipment installer in the company's Circleville district, Gooman has been with General for six years.

The technical training school offers more than 90 courses and seminars. Classroom training helps employees develop job skills and stay abreast of technological advancement.

OLCC Hearing

Scheduled Thursday

The first of this year's four public hearings held by the Ohio Liquor Control Commission has been scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Thursday, at 219 S. High St., Columbus. Commission Chairman David L. Kessler announced today.

Subsequent hearings are scheduled for May 5, August 17 and November 16.

Required by statute, the hearings allow the Liquor Control Commission to receive complaints and suggestions pertaining to Ohio's liquor control laws.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Harvey saw two Airedales fighting on the sidewalk. Snatching up a stick, he raised it over his head to drive them apart. But as he did so, the stick struck another helpful citizen who had come up behind him.

As a result, Harvey would up in court facing a damage claim. The other man reasoned as follows:

"I don't blame Harvey for trying to break up the dog fight. But the fact is, he did put a gash in my scalp that took seven stitches to close. Since this was certainly not my fault, I am entitled to be compensated for my injury."

But the court turned him down, since it wasn't Harvey's fault either. The court said the incident fell in the category of "inevitable accident," for which the law imposes no liability on anybody.

Most courts will apply this principle in a wide variety of situations. Another case involved a motorist who was sued for knocking down a four-year-old boy. The youngster had dashed out suddenly from behind a parked car.

Admittedly, the child was too young to be blamed for the accident. But the court saw no reason to make the equally blameless motorist foot the bill.

Of course, the mere fact that an accident happens suddenly does not mean it was "inevitable." Thus:

A motorist caused a collision when he fell asleep at the wheel. Defending himself later in court, he said:

"One moment I was awake, the next moment I was asleep."

But the court found him negligent for not paying more attention to the telltale symptoms of drowsiness.

"Sleep," said the court, "does not ordinarily come upon one unawares." A Pickaway County Bar Assn., an American Bar, and Ohio State Bar Assn. public service feature.

Carter Cuts Excessive Ceremony

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, seeking to set a simpler style for his presidency, is dispensing with traditional fanfares as he greets his first foreign head of state, Mexico's President Jose Lopez Portillo.

Carter revealed Sunday he has cut out some frills for today's White House ceremony marking the start of Lopez Portillo's state visit.

Aides said Carter eliminated the 14 Army herald trumpeters, who used to play fanfares from the White House balcony, and the array of flags of the states and territories that had made a colorful backdrop for South Lawn ceremonies. He also instructed military bands not to play two tunes traditional at presidential ceremonies.

"Obviously we'll recognize the foreign leader in the proper form," Carter told reporters in his hometown of Plains, Ga., on Sunday. "But I don't approve of the 'Ruffles and Flourishes' and 'Hail to the Chief' for me."

Carter planned to meet with his Cabinet prior to the ceremony.

On Sunday night he conferred with U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, just returned from a 10-day trip to Africa that ended in controversy.

Young said on Saturday that former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger "abandoned" the British in arranging the Geneva conference on Rhodesia. Young said Kissinger put the "burden on Britain's back."

The president said earlier Sunday that he believed Young's remarks were taken out of context and that he did not think "Andy said it in a critical way."

Carter returned to Washington early from his weekend visit to Plains in order to meet for an hour with Young, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski.

THREE PEOPLE HURT — Three people were hurt in this two-vehicle accident 8:15 a.m. Saturday on Route 104 near the Keplar-Ford Road intersection. Lewis D. George, 34, Jeffersonville, suffered a fractured nose, severe facial lacerations and an abrasion to his right knee; Herman Crosby, 51, Route 2, Ashville, suffered rib and head injuries; and Robert W. Crosby, 45, Route 1, Ashville, suffered severe lacerations over his right eye, a broken right leg, and a fractured hip. All were treated at Berger Hospital and given emergency aid by the Harrison Twp. and Scioto Twp. emergency squads. Deputy Sheriff Dan Dewey said George was driving north on Route 104 when he lost control of his car on an ice patch in a banked, downhill curve to the right. His car collided head-on with the pick-up truck driven by Herman Crosby.

Circleville Forum Proposes Drop-In Center

Even though the energy crisis will present additional problems, efforts to find and equip a drop-in center for local youth will continue on the part of the organizations and individuals involved in the Circleville Forum Youth Project.

Circleville Forum president, Mrs. Sterling Poling reported on a teen center, recently opened in Jackson, passing on suggestions made by those operating that center, during a meeting held on Friday.

Several funding sources are being studied, both local and Federal, and an effort will be made to determine how many adult volunteers will be needed to man the center when it can be opened. The group will also study the possibility of one employed person who might be shared with other local groups needing such a person on a part-time basis.

In the meantime, to offer a variety of activities, Forum committees are contacting churches to gain their support in offering an after school, 3:30 to 5 p.m. drop in activity for teens. For others, it is hoped to plan some "after-the-game" parties at cooperating schools when the current energy crisis is past.

A representative group of young people who have met to consider the proposed teen center, suggested outdoor activities. This group will hold future meetings in an effort to suggest activities which may be planned around the energy problem.

The next meeting will be held on March 11 at the Red Cross Chapter House.

Thieves Crack Safe At WHS

Thieves used tools stolen from the shop area of Westfall High School to break into the safe in the principal's office, according to a report at the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

The incident occurred between 1 a.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday.

Entry was gained to the school by breaking a window into room 106, according to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff R.L. Phillips.

Once inside, the thieves walked immediately to the shop area, and used a metal chair to break a window beside the shop door.

A metal hasp was broken to allow entry to a metal storage cabinet in the shop, and bolt cutters which were used to break into another cabinet were taken.

The bolt cutters were also used to crack open the safe.

A Litronix calculator valued at $40, $50 in cash, and the bolt cutters, valued at $50, were taken.

In addition, the three broken windows were estimated at $255, the three padlocks and hasp at $21, and a filing cabinet at $80. Damage in excess of $450 was also reported.

Seek Farm Plan Backing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 100-member Congressional Rural Caucus of House and Senate members is trying to get President Carter's backing for a $16 billion economic assistance plan for rural areas.

Rep. John Breckinridge, D-Ky., the caucus chairman, said the package would boost the loan levels of Farmers Home Administration programs by $15.9 billion and its grant programs by $557 million.

"What we are really talking about is providing hundreds of thousands of jobs in the construction of needed community water and waste disposal facilities, new farm and nonfarm enterprises, the practical renovation and new construction of housing and, above all, the financial assistance to keep rural America's farm and non-farm enterprises from bankruptcy," Breckinridge said.

State of Ohio, Department of Insurance, Certificate of Compliance — The undersigned, Superintendent of Insurance of the State of Ohio, hereby certifies that the PRUDENTIAL PROPERTY & CASUALTY INS. CO., of New Jersey, State of New Jersey, has complied with the laws of this State applicable to it and is authorized during the current year to transact in this state its appropriate business of insurance. Its financial condition is shown by its annual statement to have been as follows on December 31, 1975: Admitted assets, $113,753,297.00; Liabilities, $136,521,283.00; Surplus, $110,772,014.00; Income, $251,780,501.00; Expenses, $151,352,339.00; Net assets, $114,772,014.00; Capital, $4,000,000.00. Being Casual Now Latest In Fashion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rumpled corduroys are okay; ties are optional. The new look in the White House is comfortable. Some might call it sloppy.

There's an air of casual slapdash as aides in the Carter administration breeze through the plush corridors jacketless, often wearing khaki pants and turtlenecks rather than the three-piece suits popular during the Ford administration.

"This is the way most of us have been all along," says Gerald Rafshoon, a White House media consultant who was sporting a turtleneck. "People who wore coats and ties continue to do so. Those who were slobs continue to be slobs."

"Jimmy never imposed a dress code on us. We're a pretty loose, irreverent group," said Rafshoon, who directed Carter's advertising during the presidential campaign. "People are always casual around Jimmy. He's oblivious to the superficiality of dress."

White House press secretary Jody Powell says that while Carter's aides don't dress down on purpose, their sartorial informality may convey a message to the American people.

"It may make us more approachable," said Powell, who rarely wears all three pieces of his suits at once. He sat at his desk during an interview with his vest unbuttoned, tie loose and feet propped up.

"For the most part, I think people here are not making any effort to be different than they are," he said. "One message is that for Carter, clothes aren't part of the trappings of formality and power. They aren't important."

Powell said Carter's decision to wear a sweater rather than a jacket for his first fireside chat was a conscious one. Carter realizes that clothes have an impact on the public's perception of him, Powell said.

"Looks are part of it. If you know looks are a part of it, you make a choice.... The choice you make shows what you are about," Powell explained.

Pat Caddell, 27, Carter's pollster, said the new White House staffers may dress less formally than those in previous administrations, but the Carterites look a lot better than they did during the campaign.

"If anything, people are trying to look respectable. But they're succeeding miserably," he said.

See Revival Of Israeli Peace Plan

JERUSALEM (AP) — When U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance visits here this week, Israeli officials may revive their proposal to exchange some of the occupied territories for individual no-war agreements with their Arab foes, informed sources report.

The Israelis shelved the proposal when the Arabs began pushing last year for resumption of the Geneva peace talks to write an overall Arab-Israeli settlement.

Publicly the Israelis have stressed their readiness to return to Geneva as long as the Palestine Liberation Organization is not present as a separate, full-fledged participant. But with the Arabs insisting on PLO participation, the Israelis say privately that talk of resuming the conference now is unrealistic.

Israeli spokesmen have said their government would prefer that the United States mediate "far-reaching interim agreements" providing for withdrawal from some of the occupied Arab lands in exchange for firm Arab commitments ending the state of war.

How far Israel would withdraw would depend on negotiations and the concessions made by the Arabs, senior officials say.

Vance, who arrives Tuesday, has said that during his trip he plans to investigate a reported shift toward moderation by the PLO. But the Israelis are skeptical.

PLO leader Yasir Arafat "may play tactics with any Western leader, but he can't fool us," Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said during the visit last week of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Worker Payrolls Increase In 1976

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Production worker payrolls rose 10 per cent in 1976 over the previous year's level in Ohio, and December payrolls were up 9 per cent from the corresponding period in 1975, according to an Ohio State University report.

The state's production worker employment rose 2 per cent from December to December and was fractionally higher for 1976 than for 1975, the university's Center for Business and Economic Research reported.

The center said lumber producers outpaced all other groups in the December-to-December comparison with a 30 per cent increase. That was followed by vehicle manufacturers with a 24 per cent increase.

Winter was expected to move back into Ohio today with a cold front sweeping southeastward across the state.

Generally cloudy skies and colder temperatures were forecast into the middle of the week, with highs generally in the 20s and lows in the teens through Wednesday.

Skies cleared over southwest and south central Ohio overnight while flurries persisted in the northeast. Flurries across the state Sunday added only a trace to the snow already on the ground.

Temperatures around the state this morning were generally in the upper 20s to the low 30s under partly cloudy skies.

Mustangs Top Vikings, 67-57

TEAM WORK — Westfall's Eric Schleich (45) sends the ball over to Bruce Starkey (23) despite the effort of a pair of Vikings to break up the play. Starkey led all scorers with 21 points as Westfall downed Teays Valley, 67-57, in a county clash.

By TOM SPRING
Herald Staff Writer

The Westfall Mustangs notched another tally in the win column in their comeback attempt as the cagey lads defeated Teays Valley 67-57 on the winners' court.

In a contest that saw more jump balls than a Chinese checker game (it took three just to start the second frame), the Mustangs took the lead on Chris Weaver's corner shot and never trailed in the contest.

They led by 19 points at the end of the third period, but Terry Trego and Duane Keller rallied their Viking teammates back into the contest although they never quite caught up before time ran out. Westfall, once near oblivion with a 1-7 record, chalked up its third victory in a row.

Mustang Coach Mike Eckle's game plan was to grab the offensive rebounds and take away the Viking running game.

That is what they did as Teays Valley was forced to shoot outside. Meanwhile, the Mustangs took 41 rebounds, 10 more than their opponents.

Westfall's big senior center, Larry

Bilek, and star sophomore Bruce Starkey teamed up for 11 points as the Mustangs ran out a 15-6 first period score.

Starkey kept up the attack with eight straight points in the half as his team increased the lead to 21-12.

Jerry Voss helped the Norsemen with five but it did not deprive Westfall of a 31-17 half-time lead.

John Long ignited the crowd and the team in the second half when he spun off a Viking defender during a drive and swished the ball through the cords with his back to the basket.

Senior forward Eric Schleich poured in seven points as Westfall took a commanding 56-37 lead at the buzzer.

The Mustangs tried a stall in the final frame but it backfired as the lads missed their free throws and the Vikings made the most of the opportunity as Trego and Keller poured in 13 points. It wasn't enough, though and the hard-luck Vikings took the loss.

Bruce Starkey led all scorers with 10 buckets and a free throw for 21 points.

Jeff Mowery helped the Mustang cause with 13 and Larry Bilek also had double figures with 11 points.

Eric Schleich hooped nine, John Long canned three, while Neil Keller, Dale Ruoff and Larry List each added two.

Jeff Voss and Terry Trego teamed up for 16 points apiece as they led the Viking effort.

Junior guard Duane Keller fired six, Tim Tosca sank five, Mike Fisher, Ronnie Little and Rick Queen each shot four and Mike Johnsen scored two.

Westfall shot 43 per cent from the field, sinking 27 of 63 attempts. They had an off night at the free throw line as they made only 13 of 27 charity tosses for a 48 percentage.

Teays Valley put the ball through the hoop 22 times in 61 tries for a 36 per cent field goal average and made 13 of 23 foul shots for 57 percentage points.

Westfall had 17 turnovers while the Vikings only misplayed the ball 14 times.

Viking Coach Bob Hoover said, "Westfall is a well-coached and well-disciplined ball club."

"Bilek can really jump. He and Starkey played a real good ball game."

Hoover was most pleased with the performance of Duane Keller. "Keller came in and got six points for us, in the last frame, and did a good job," Hoover said.

The Mustang mentor was elated. Eckle said, "This is the most gratifying win I've had because the kids worked hard and they deserved it."

We played as well tonight as we have this year. Defensively, we let down in the second half. We worked the boards pretty well and shot enough to get them out of our zone.

"We got a good effort out of Bilek on the boards and an excellent night out of Bruce Starkey," he said.

Eckle was also pleased with the bench help from Mowery, Keller, Schleich, List and Ruoff. He was also pleased with the playmaking of Dave Clem and John Long.

"Our crowd had much to do with the way we played," Eckle said, whose team played its first home game in almost a month.

The supporters of both schools acted creditably as they cheered their teams on.

The little Vikings won the preliminary contest 35-33.

The Vikings led 8-2, 19-13, and 25-21 enroute to the win.

J. Sanders scored 12 for the Vikings, A. Ett rimmed 10, Pontius fired seven, M. Prater, D. Helser and C. Toole each added two.

Randy Darst, Randy Hartzell and Mark List led the Vikings with eight points apiece, Dan Schleich canned four, Kevin Creamer hooped three and Greg Cooper added two.

The Viking teams will travel to Grandview Tuesday, host Dublin Friday and visit Circleville Saturday.

The Mustangs have three home games slated. They will play Unioto Monday, Piketon on Friday and Southeastern on Saturday.

Braves Swamp Lakers To Share League Lead

Chuck Cave burned the nets for 32 points as he paced Logan Elm to a 89-67 win over Millersport Saturday on the Lakers' floor.

It was a big win for the Braves as it put them into a three-way tie for first place in the Mid State With Liberty Union and Bloom Carroll. All three have league records of 6-2.

Logan Elm was in top form as they turned in one of the best performances of the year. They led all the way in the contest, 17-10, 44-23 and 66-49.

In addition to Cave's output, Mark Skinner hooped 19, Jeff Collins had 15 and eight assists, Terry Wright hooped six, John Mettler hit five, Don Hill tallied four, Tony Crist added three, Mike Patrick and Mark Martin each hit two and Doug Woods had one.

Dupler led Millersport with 22, Waller netted 14, Sabo hooped 10, Helle hit six, Caldwell and Mastel both added four, Weldon and Bryson each had two while Clark, Sandusky and Lewis all added one.

Logan Elm hit 34 of 68 from the floor for 50 per cent and converted 21 of 31 at the charity stripe for 68 per cent.

The Lakers sank 26 of 71 from the hardwood for 37 per cent and hit 15 of 26 from the foul line for 57 per cent.

Logan Elm won the battle of the boards, 47-40, with Cave and Hill doing the job while Waller grabbed 17 for Millersport.

The Braves had 22 turnovers while the Lakers misplayed the ball 12 times.

Coach Butch Kobel went to his bench and all the Braves saw action in the contest.

"I was very pleased with both of our games this weekend," coach Kobel commented. "Beating Canal Winchester on their own floor Friday gave us a boost and Saturday we played just about our best game of the year."

Logan Elm's reserves did not fare quite as well as they dropped a 41-38 decision to the Lakers.

Tom Congrove was tops for the Braves with 12 points, Phil Evans and Mark Van Over each tallied eight, Bruce Hannigan and Jeff Davis both hit four and Brian Hannigan added two.

Logan Elm will host Fisher Catholic Tuesday, Liberty Union Friday, Amanda-Clearcreek on Saturday and Berne Union on Jan. 22.

Vikings Cop Third In Metro

TIED UP — Scott Rader, Teays Valley's entry in the heavyweight division, has his opponent tied up in first round action of the Metro League wrestling tournament hosted by the Vikings Saturday.

by the Vikings Saturday. Rader went on to pin the man in the above photo, Greg Johnson of West Jefferson. The Vikings captured third place honors in the meet.

The Teays Valley Vikings wrestled their way to third place in the Metro League meet hosted by Teays Valley Saturday.

Marysville took top honors in the meet with 162 points. Olentangy came in second with 122½. After the Vikings' third place with 116½ the other teams and their point totals were: Hamilton Twp., 113½; Franklin Heights, 101; Grandview, 56½; Dublin, 32½; and West Jefferson, 28.

The first championship for the Vikings came when Brian Adkinson wrestled his way to the top in the 119 pound class. Matt Thomas proved the best when he captured the 132 pound crown, and Scott Rader finished off the night by winning the heavyweight title for the Vikes.

Allen Adkinson grabbed second place for Teays Valley in the 155 pound division, and Richard Meyers also finished second in the 175 pound class.

One third place winner for the Vikings was Doug McCotter in the 98 pound class.

Friday evening Teays Valley also hosted the Metro Reserve Wrestling meet, and the Viking grapplers made an impressive showing by finishing second in the tournament. Craig Meyers won the championship in the 175 pound class and Kelly Kennedy took top honors in the heavyweight division for the Vikings.

The Viking wrestlers will be in action again Wednesday night when they travel to Chillicothe to meet the Cavaliers.

Pam Higgins Wins LPGA Tournament

MIAMI (AP) — Pam Higgins is a long way from the top rung in the Ladies Professional Golf Association, but she proved she was not awed by the tour's stars by winning the $7,500 top money in a $50,000 tournament.

The 31-year-old native of Groveport, Ohio, beat 1976 Player of the Year Judy Rankin with a par four on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday.

And Miss Higgins did not get rattled, and apparently thrived the first two days when she was paired with Kathy Whitworth, who shot a 68, and then with Silvia Bertolaccini, who had a 69.

"The first two days I had 72 and 71 and I played very well," said Miss Higgins, who has averaged only $12,000 in earnings during her eight years on the tour. "So I was very confident, very aggressive today."

"As I walked down on the 15th fairway, I felt I could birdie the last four holes."

She birdied 15, 16 and 17 for a three-under-69 on the 6,250-yard Kendale Lakes Country Club course for a 54-hole total of 212.

Miss Higgins, whose only other victory came in 1971, watched Mrs. Rankin finish minutes later and two-putt from 50 feet for a tie.

"I didn't think Judy would make that putt (a six-footer for par) on 18. But she's a good long putter," she said. "I didn't want to think win. I didn't want to think anything. I was trying to think about how I was going to hit the shot on 13 (the first playoff hole)."

Miss Higgins drove straight down the fairway of the 345yard 13th and easily made a par four, ending the match. Mrs. Rankin, considered by Miss Higgins as "the best female player in the world," hit a spectator with her drive and the ball buried behind a tree.

Mrs. Rankin, hit a low second shot which soared 15 yards beyond the green. Her chip shot back still was two feet off the green, and she had to try a 20foot chip on her fourth shot.

Miami Nails Ball State, 87-70

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It was the same old script for Miami against Ball State and, as a result, the Redskins are clinging to a precarious lead today in the Mid-American Conference basketball scramble.

Miami nailed Ball State for the 16th consecutive time 87-70 Saturday, jumping its conference record to 9-2. But Northern Illinois (8-2) and Central Michigan (7-2) kept pace.

Northern Illinois whipped Ohio University 77-70 while Central Michigan escaped rival Eastern Michigan with a 76-62 triumph.

Elsewhere in the MAC, Kent State surprised Western Michigan 70-68 and Toledo downed Bowling Green 64-55.

Miami nursed a 43-39 halftime lead at Ball State, fired up after Coach Jim Holstein announced two days earlier he was quitting at the end of the season.

"I thought the story of the game," said Miami Coach Darrell Hedric, "was our second half defense. Our defense wasn't that good in the first half. We also had a lot of patience with our offense in the second half."

Archie Aldridge's 27 points paced the Redskins, but Hedric preferred to talk about Randy Ayers. "He really plugged center," said the Miami coach of his 19-point scorer. "He rebounded well. He had a very good game."

Holstein had few complaints afterward, saying, "We played on emotion and just ran out of gas at the end. Their front line is outstanding. They did it to us today."

Northern Illinois crawled out of a 13-1 hole at the start to master Ohio for the second time this season. Matt Hicks, with 27 points, again was brilliant for the Huskies. Paul Dawkins added 18 while Steve Skaggs put in 28 for the Bobcats.

Paul Dawkins, who had 18 points, shoved the Huskies ahead to stay with a basket for a 42-40 lead with less than 16 minutes remaining.

Central Michigan also came from behind the closing moments at Eastern Michigan. Ben Poquette's two free throws gave the Chippewas their first lead at 72-70 with two minutes to play.

Bob Riddle's 17 points and 16 rebounds led Eastern Michigan, dropping its 10th conference game in 11 attempts. Leonard Drake hit 18 points for Central Michigan.

Kent State slipped by Western Michigan on James Collins' two free throws in the final 10 seconds of play to notch only its third triumph in 10 MAC contests. The loss dropped the defending league champion Broncos into a fourth place tie with Toledo with 64 records.

Toledo got past the Falcons with the help of three converted free throws in the closing minutes as the result of what the officials said was a deliberate foul by Dave Sutton and a technical called on Bowling Green Coach John Weinert.

Weinert later was critical of the officiating, saying "something has to be done" about it. He did not get specific.

"It was a nice game; too bad the officials had to miss it," Weinert said.

MICHELOB

Weekends were made for MICHELOB

Concerning the technical called on him, the coach said, "I didn't say a word...It must have been the towel I threw."

Meanwhile in other Ohio college basketball Saturday, No. 12 Cincinnati posted its 18th victory in 21 games, making Georgia Tech an 84-73 Metro Seven Conference victim. It was the Bearcats' 89th consecutive home triumph.

Ohio State's losing streak reached seven games as Michigan State broke its own sixgame losing spell with a 71-57 regionally televised triumph. The Buckeyes also lost leading scorer Kelvin Ransey with an ankle sprain.

Dayton rolled to an easy 86-58 victory over South Florida as Jim Paxson scored 22 points and Erv Giddings 18.

In Ohio Conference play, Northern Division leader Wooster beat Heidelberg 82-77 as Sam Dixon and Preston Burroughs combined for 32 points. Baldwin-Wallace edged Mount Union 77-75 in a battle of second place teams, while Otterbein beat Denison 77-73 and Kenyon defeated Oberlin 69-59.

Wittenberg, No. 1 in the Southern Division, squeaked past Capital 56-55 in overtime, but the victory was costly to the Tigers as top scorer Rick White suffered a pulled hamstring muscle. Muskingum whipped Ohio Northern 68-50 and Ohio Wesleyan downed Marietta 96-85 in other division contests.

Hoosier-Buckeye Conference action saw Hanover whipping Wilmington 106-86, Taylor defeating Earlham 78-68 and Bluffton trouncing Earlham 75-58. Carnegie-Mellon recorded its ninth straight Presidents Conference triumph at the expense of Hiram, 56-54.

Elsewhere, it was Indiana State 88, Cleveland State 76; Central State 80, Wilberforce 61; St. Vincent, Pa. 85, Steubenville 75; Akron 79, Buffalo 77; Ashland 54, Ohio Dominican 28; Bellarmine State 88, Wright State 85 in overtime; Youngstown State 75, Indiana-Purdue 64.

Willy Davenport Grabs Track Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Olympic medalist Willy Davenport, who says this will be his last year of competition, keeps on hurdling and winning as if he were a teenager rather than 33 years old.

After winning the 60-yard hurdles at the Knights of Columbus track meet here Saturday night, Davenport said, "I'm not running as well as last year at this time, but I still think I'm running like I was when I was 19 or 20."

His "not running well" was a meet record 6.86 seconds, beating Charles Foster of Philadelphia Pioneers and Thomas Munkelt of East Germany. The previous meet record was 6.9, set in 1975 by Dan Smith of Florida State University.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If ever a college basketball team went to court without a defense, it's the Michigan Wolverines.

Coach Johnny Orr certainly found them guilty Sunday after a 73-64 upset by Indiana.

"They just ran their offense in the second half," a grim Orr said of Indiana. "I don't know how they got Woodson opened so often."

Orr referred to Mike Woodson, Indiana's freshman forward who flowed through the Wolverine defense with shocking ease and scored 26 points.

While fifth-ranked Michigan wasn't playing defense, Indiana was. The Hoosiers seemingly had stop signs up all over the court and the traffic was terrific.

'Trum Wrasslin' Latest Sport

NEW YORK (AP) — The Big Apple, which has weathered six-day bicycle races, marathon dancing, flag-pole sitting, Cash 'n' Carry Pyle and Muhammad Ali, is bracing itself for the formal introduction of sport's newest fad:

Thum Wrasslin. An expensively embossed invitation heralds the "First International Thum Wrasslin Press Party and Tournament" Tuesday at one of Manhattan's plush steak emporiums.

It's a commentary on the times. The Golden Twenties were called the "Age of Wonderful Nonsense." College kids gulped goldfish and drank champagne from their ladies' slippers. Now, with sports on another heady binge, they are jousting with thumbs.

"Thumb wrestling has been traced by archeologists to cave drawings as early as 12,000 B.C.," says Bob Schmidt, a restive 29-year-old advertising executive who takes credit for rejuvenating the pastime.

"It was enjoyed by the ruling classes of both ancient Greek and Roman cultures but fell by the wayside in the Dark Ages only to reemerge as a popular sport during the Renaissance."

Without taking his tongue from his cheek, he said that it wasn't until 1906 when a man named Muth Nilssar became world champ that "Thum Wrasslin was perfected into the fine art that we know it as today."

It was while a student at Marquette University that Schmidt, a Milwaukee resident, became thoroughly bored and decided that what the world needed was a contact sport which bridges all age groups.

"Thumb wrestling was the answer," he said, using the non-commercial name. "It could be played by persons of all ages — from five to 90 — with no distinction for sex or nationality."

"There are a couple of reservations. Because it is a contact sport, our association frowns on mixed matches. They could lead to other things. Also there is a 10-point handicap for double-jointed thumbs."

The rules are simple and the equipment rudimentary. Required are a miniature ring, 10 inches square; a Thummy, or rubber sleeve, which is placed over the thumb as a protection against opposing thumb nails and sweaty skin; a book of rules, a penalty chart — "Illegal holds, unnecessary roughness, abusive conduct, grease

Competitors are classified according to thumb length, measured from the base to the tip, including the nail. The two thumbs are laid side by side on the mat. They switch places by jumping each other's thumb three times — as a sort of practice — and then are raised for combat. The object, as in

Flint Generals Tie For IHL Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pierre Giroux scored a crucial goal Sunday as the Flint Generals moved into a firstplace tie with the Kalamazoo Wings in the International Hockey League's North Division.

Giroux's power play goal at 13:29 broke a 2-2 tie and the Generals rolled on to a 9-4 victory over the Port Huron Flags.

Junior Tiger Matmen See Double Action

Circleville's seventh and eighth grade wrestling team will host Groveport Middle School 6 p.m. Tuesday and will be at home with Groveport Madison 6 p.m. Wednesday. Both meets will be in the Mill St. gym.

The late Jimmie Dykes managed six major league teams in 19 seasons.

defense," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "We thought we had given up some easy baskets last week (in an 89-84 loss at Michigan) before we set up. We told our kids this week that our defense started when the shot went up."

Indiana's overbearing defense got Kent Benson into foul trouble, however, and things looked discouraging when the All-American center was tagged with his fourth personal.

"We had no intention of taking Benson out," said Knight. "We were either going to win it or lose it right there. We started to hold the ball when they were in the zone because Benson was least susceptible for fouling. Benson played extremely smart with four fouls. He positioned himself well and made the key plays. And we had three guys out there setting up Benson and Woodson."

Benson wound up with 24 points. In college basketball action Saturday, top-ranked San Francisco trounced St. Mary's 99-82; Washington upset No. 2 UCLA 78-73; No. 3 Kentucky trimmed Auburn 89-82; No. 4 Wake Forest defeated North Carolina State 84-77; No. 10 Nevada-Las Vegas nipped No. 6 Louisville 99-96; No. 7 Alabama turned back Mississippi State 73-69; No. 8 Minnesota outscored Iowa 61-58 and No. 9 Marquette hammered Manhattan 86-60.

In the second ten, No. 11 Tennessee whipped Louisiana State 91-64; No. 12 stunned No. 17 Syracuse 91-84; No. 18 Arizona beat New Mexico 88-84; No. 19 Detroit downed Wayne State 123-77 and No. 20 VMI turned back Richmond 92-

87. Bill Cartwright, Winford Boynes and Marlon Redmond scored 21 points apiece as San Francisco beat St. Mary's and clinched a tie for the West Coast Athletic Conference. One more WCAC victory will earn an NCAA playoff berth for the powerful Dons, who are undefeated in 25 games overall this year.

Mike Neill, James Edwards and Chester Dorsey combined for 54 points to lead Washington over UCLA and tighten up the Pacific-8 Conference race. It was the second Pac-8 defeat for the defending champion Bruins and put them just a shade ahead of three teams tied for second — Oregon, Washington and Washington State. UCLA has lost one fewer game than the others.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Congress Toughens GI Benefit Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veterans going to school under the GI bill have a new incentive to complete their course work. If they don't, Uncle Sam will demand full refunds from them.

In the past, if a veteran dropped courses and ended up carrying too few hours to qualify for his payments, the Veterans Administration paid for the courses up until the date he dropped them.

But under new legislation, the VA is seeking retroactive refunds from any student who drops courses and takes fewer classroom hours than required for his VA payment. The amounts vary for full-time, three-quarter-time and half-time students.

Congress passed the legislation last year to reduce overpayments to veterans who dropped out of school or canceled courses without telling the VA. Those overpayments totaled more than $2 billion since 1971, but the VA says it has managed to get about 70 per cent of the money back. The biggest overpayments were $883 million in the year ending last July 1.

The retroactive refund provision went into effect on Dec. 1. The rule also applies in cases where a course is completed but the grade is ignored by the school for graduation purposes.

The penalty does not apply when the situation was caused by circumstances beyond the student's control.

Andrew H. Thornton, chief of the VA's education benefits, said in an interview "it's too early" to guess how many students will have to make refunds for the school term that ended recently.

However, "some schools have expressed concern about the effect (the rule) will have" on the veterans, he said.

No repayments for the past term can be collected for VA payments made before Dec. 1. But for the current and future terms, the retroactive repayments can be assessed back to the start of the term.

The VA is urging veterans to confer with their schools' veterans affairs office to see what effect dropping courses will have on them.

Billy Likes Plain Fare

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Billy Carter says he doesn't know much about art or fancy French cooking. But he knows what he likes.

President Carter's younger brother was here Sunday at the unveiling of an art exhibit depicting Plains, Ga., his hometown.

The day started with a late, leisurely breakfast at a French Quarter restaurant. He ordered ham and eggs while his wife, Sybil, sampled the gourmet fare.

"I don't know what the other stuff is," Carter explained.

From the restaurant, Carter zipped to a reviewing stand to watch part of a Carnival parade, then to the art show, an exhibit by New Orleans artist Phil Sage, who spent much of December in Plains.

"I don't know anything about art," Carter said. "But this is closer to showing what Plains is really like — or was like — than anything else I've seen."

He stopped before an etching showing him and several of his cronies. "This is my favorite," he said, "because I'm in it."

At the Carnival parade, too, he had demonstrated his singular taste. The king raised a champagne toast. Billy raised a can of beer.

Tom, Con Art Prove Real Guys

SANFORD, Maine (AP) — The guest register at Allen's Motel and Chateau here was signed "Tom and Con Art, Akron, Ohio."

When the pair checked out of their room here, a color television set, bedspread and two blankets were missing. Together they were valued at $460.

Police could not help but wonder at the names in the guest book, and at least one bystander came up with the label "con-artist."

Metzenbaum Takes Calls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although President Carter intends to personally answer telephones at the White House for chats with anybody who calls, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum already has beaten him to the punch.

As he promised when he was running for office, Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, has been answering telephone calls from constituents every weekday morning between 8:30 and 9:30.

"Pat, we're trying to do something about it," he told one caller recently, "but I can't give you any simple answers."

The senator's style is down-to-earth and he prefers to refer to callers by their first names.

Since he took office in early January, he said he has talked to more than 400 Ohioans.

"Hello, Howard Metzenbaum speaking. Tell me your problem and let me see if I can do a good job for you," he recently told a caller from Marion. The caller's business was damaged by the severe winter and he was having problems with an insurance agency over his claim.

"Have you talked with your lawyer," Metzenbaum said. "I'm a lawyer, but I can't practice law in the Senate. My best advice to you would be for you to see a lawyer."

WINNING FORM — Russian speed skater Galina Stepankaya heads toward finish line on 1500-meter event at Ladies World Speed Skating Championships in Keystone, Colorado. Galina, who won the gold medal in the 1500 at Innsbruck Olympics, won the distance and is favored to win World Title.

Cincinnati Gunman, Wife Face Charges

CINCINNATI (AP) — A man and his former wife, who terrorized eight hostages in a Cincinnati home for unwed mothers for 15 hours while waiting for a reunion with their longlost son, are scheduled for arraignment today on charges of kidnapping.

Jessie Coulter, 39, and Rita Gibran, 37, both of Utica, Mich., were arrested Saturday after the last of the seven women and one man had been freed from the x-ray room of the Catherine Booth Home.

"We are signing one charge each against both Coulter and his former wife until the case goes to the grand jury where all witnesses can be heard," said Police Lt. Dan Cash. "Then, after hearing all the witnesses, multiple indictments may be forthcoming."

Many of the hostages were still trying Sunday to forget their ordeal which began when Coulter and his wife walked into the home Friday evening, as a sickle cell anemia clinic was just ending.

After producing a shotgun, Coulter herded eight hostages into the x-ray room and made two of the women spread a new rug on the floor where the hostages sat in a circle.

Salvation Army Maj. Martha Greenwell, administrator of the home, said a hostage told her that six of the hostages were able to escape when one of the hostages grabbed Coulter's shotgun after he had put it down to smoke.

The hostage—nurse Mary Owens—told Maj. Greenwell, that Coulter had been smoking marijuana "all night long." Maj. Greenwell said that Miss Owens recalled that the gun went off when she tried to throw it to another prisoner, and a scuffle broke out between the hostages and their captor.

The only male hostage sat on Coulter while six of the hostages ran screaming out of the building.

The other two captives were freed two hours later when Coulter and Mrs. Gibran fell for a ruse by police who pretended to provide the couple with the son that had been born at the home 20 years before.

Auditor Sends Funds

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson reported today the February distribution of $4,809,304.89 in Local Government Fund money to Ohio's 88 counties and 386 cities and villages levying local income taxes.

Under the Local Government Fund formula the counties received 11-12ths of the amount, or $4,408,537.77, while the municipalities having their own income taxes shared the remaining $400,776.16.

There are 386 municipalities levying local income taxes. However, the Auditor's office is withholding monthly payments to two villages in favor of lump sum payments to them in January. Withheld this month was $2.08 due the Village of Timberlake, Lake County, and $2.44 due the Village of Canal Winchester, Franklin County.

The Local Government Fund distribution is made monthly from 3.5 per cent of the previous month's collections of the state income, sales and corporation taxes. The use of the percentage factor causes the amount available for distribution to local governmental units to fluctuate monthly, Ferguson said.

In January, the month on which the February distribution was based, the state collected $73,345,944.33 from the sales tax, $47,840,382.77 from the income tax and $16,222,642.35 from the corporation tax.

In Pickaway County, $12,500 was paid to the Pickaway County Treasurer, and $227.04, making the total payments to Pickaway County $12,727.04.

UNSAFE OVERPASS — Cement chipping away from underneath the railroad overpass on County Road 511 has forced closure of the road from Route 23 to the Bell Station Road. The bridge was declared unsafe 10:15 p.m. Saturday by County Road Superintendent Harlow Arledge until an inspection could be completed by N & W Railroad engineers. Due to cracks in the structure, it is imperative that motorists stay clear of the bridge, according to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, who said he plans to enforce "Road Closed" signs. And, even though the road is closed to vehicular traffic, trains are still permitted to run on the bridge.

We're working to conserve energy and we're listing ways you can help, too!

Saving all energy today is a serious matter for all of us. We've been very active in conserving fuels since 1974 and here's the main points of our program today:

We use energy efficient low wattage light bulbs
 Conservation periods
 Decor lighting turned off
 Improved thermo-insulation and weather stripping all stores
 Energy efficient equipment replacement program
 Computerized energy controls in some new stores
 Conversion of some stores to all electric energy
 Controls of some stores' heating to propane gas
 All new stores equipped with HEAT RECLAIM systems which recycles warm air pulled out of refrigeration system to heat store and provide hot water
 No natural gas used in our Kroger Warehouse
 Alternate fuel used in our own Kroger Bakery
 Thermostats turned down, again
 Shopping hours reduced while maintaining community service and employment of our associates.

You can help save energy, too! Check these in this list that are meaningful for you... then do!

- Turn home heating down to 60 degrees
- Seal off unused rooms by closing doors and closing off hot and cold air returns
- On extra cold days, run furnace fan continuously
- Turn hot water heater thermostats down to normal from high
- Check all house windows to be sure they are locked—tightly closed
- Draw all drapes at night
- Go thru your garage to your house rather than using the front door
- Tape plastic drop cloths over poorly sealed windows—especially basement windows
- Don't use your fireplace. Most take away more heat than they give
- Stop air leaks around unused exterior doors with newspaper
- If you do use the fireplace, close damper when not in use
- Turn off unnecessary lights
- Replace burnt lamps with lower wattage bulbs
- Load clothes washers and dishwashers to capacity
- Use bath and kitchen vents only when really needed
- Don't peak in ovens, you'll lose 25 degrees
- Turn off roasts 30 minutes before serving time—they will cook on retained heat
- Cover pots when bringing water to boil.
